Comments from the Chair

The members of the State Committee of Psychologists together with psychologists from the Missouri Psychological Association (MOPA) have been working diligently developing Rules and Regulations for the Continuing Education law that was sponsored by MOPA and passed by the legislature in 1997. These Rules and Regulations were recently published in the Missouri Register, and the State Committee of Psychologists received many helpful comments regarding the proposed Rules and Regulations from licensed psychologists across the State. We appreciate all of the comments, and by the time this newsletter is published, all that commented on the proposed Rules and Regulations will have received written responses to the comments. The Continuing Education Rules and Regulations will be published in the Missouri Code Book in the near future, with the effective date, and at that time, all licensed psychologists in Missouri will be notified.

Another change in the Psychology Practice Act that was sponsored by the Missouri Psychological Association included the addition of Temporary and Provisional licensing. Temporary licensing is now available for those psychologists who are licensed in another state, and are applying for licensure in the State of Missouri. Provisional Licenses are now available for aspiring psychologists who have achieved their doctoral degree in psychology, but have not yet fulfilled the requirements for licensure as psychologists, and who are in the process of completing their psychological residency. The members of the State Committee of Psychologists, together with psychologists from the Missouri Psychological Association have also drafted Rules and Regulations for the Temporary and Provisional licensing change in the Psychology Practice Act, and these Rules and Regulations will soon be published in the Missouri Register. Again, Missouri Psychologists will have the

Mandatory Continuing Education Rules and Regulations

The proposed Rules and Regulations were posted in the State Register during the month of February in order to allow for public comment. Comments were received and reviewed by the State Committee of Psychologists. SCOP members were sensitive to comments they received, and revisions were made in the proposed Rules and Regulations. The final order was filed and it is expected the Rules and Regulations will be implemented by December 1, 1999. The first reporting cycle will be December 1, 1999 through November 30, 2001. Renewal of the 2/1/02 through 1/31/03 license will require that psychologists will have earned 40 CE credits required for a two-year reporting period.

The Rules require that psychologists earn 40 CE credits over two years. The CE credits must include 15 credits from Category A, which includes formal programs such as seminars, conferences, workshops, postgraduate courses, some writing, and teaching or presentations. Up to 25 credits may come from Category B CE credits which includes less formal programs, seminars and conferences, some publications and presentations, and some individual study. The State Committee made every effort to make the requirements equitable for all psychologists, whether practitioner or academician.

Please note that psychologists will not be required to submit evidence of the CEs obtained but will only attest by affidavit that he or she obtained the appropriate CEs for the required reporting period. Each psychologist is required to maintain the actual records in the event of an audit.

included we verify the same information as we would via a telephone call. A written request with an approval telephone release is completed and returned to the insurance carrier. An appropriate release generally allows our office to release such information as college/university attended, degree received, information regarding any complaints/investigations that have been received or conducted. When completing the forms we answer only the questions asked by the insurance carrier. For example, if a psychologist has had a complaint filed against him or her license and asks to release information but the question does not ask for the insurance carrier does not ask if there has been complaints filed against this licensee, we do not release that information. On the other hand, if the form asks if there have been complaints filed against the licensee we would answer in the affirmative, give a brief description of the allegations of the complaint and give the decision of the Committee. If no disciplinary action was taken, we will respond that no disciplinary action was taken.

WRITTEN REQUESTS: These are generally forms that are generated by the insurance carriers and are received along with a signed release from the licensed practitioner. If the written request is received and no signed release is seen, the practitioner may assume the patient has signed a general release.

TELEPHONE CALLS: When a telephone call is received and the caller requests to verify the status of a licensee, we request from the caller the name and license number of the licensee. If the caller does not have the license number or the address is requested, we will only verify the status of a licensee with a positive match. We will verify the license number, name, address, date licensed, license number and status. Status refers to whether the licensee is current or non current and whether the licensee has been disciplined. No other information will be verified over the telephone.

My office receives numerous phone calls and written requests from insurance carriers requesting licensure verifications of licensees who are listed on their panel of providers. The written requests generally include signed releases from the licensee. I would like to share with you our procedures for verifying licensing status. Please feel free to contact our office with any additional questions you might have following review of these procedures.

The backbone of the new system is already Year 2000 compliant and the final cost of the system is one-third of the cost to correct our existing system. We are very lucky, in effect, killing two birds with one stone. Therefore, the "Y2K" will not affect your regulator.

It was brought to our attention last year that our current licensing system would experience problems with the transition from the year 1900s to the year 2000 – known to us as “Y2K”. This causes incorrect results when the difference between dates is calculated and when dates are compared to see if they have passed.

Through team input and much planning, we started exploring the possibility of updating to a new, more efficient licensing system that will provide more friendly interfaces and the ability to grow and adapt to new technology. I'm glad to report that we have awarded a contract to provide such a system. Our implementation is scheduled for early fall.

Comments from the Chair

opportunity to comment on these Rules and Regulations following publication in the Missouri Register. The Committee expects these Rules and Regulations to be published sometime in July or August 1999. The members of the State Committee of Psychologists would like to thank Dr. Brick Johnston, Dr. Robert McGilligan, and Mr. Dan Card from the Missouri Psychological Association and Mr. Jim Ertle, Assistant Attorney General for their assistance with the drafting of the Continuing Education and the Temporary and Provisional licensing Rules and Regulations. Many hours of hard work, thoughtful dialogue and concern for the welfare of the consumer of psychological services as well as concern for the expedient licensing of psychologists is represented in the writing of these Rules and Regulations. The committee will again welcome all comments from psychologists across the State.

The Committee, together with the aforementioned representatives from the Missouri Psychological Association have also reviewed and proposed changes to other Rules and Regulations regarding supervision of Psychological Residents, allowing for the Primary Supervisor to designate another Licensed Psychologist as a supervisor. This change will enable Psychologists to utilize other Licensed Psychologists who have expertise in differing areas from that of the Primary Supervisor to supervise Psychological Residents in their organized training program. Other proposed changes allow for greater flexibility for the Primary Supervisor in determining the didactic portion of the training program.

Members of the Credentials Sub-committee of the State Committee of Psychologists are currently processing the Oral Examination that is required for the State of Missouri to continue to be a part of the Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards (ASPPB) reciprocity agreement. This agreement facilitates mobility for Psychologists who are currently licensed and have been licensed for 5 or more years in one of the States in the United States or Provinces of Canada that are participating in the agreement. As noted in the last newsletter, many Missouri Psychologists assisted in writing the Oral Examination, and currently Committee Members are working on verifying validity and reliability, ensuring that the difficulty level is for entry level practice of psychology.

According to information received from the Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards, the fee charged to licensure applicants for the Examination for Professional Practice of Psychology (EPFP) will be increased to $350.00. This fee increase is the first of two planned fee increases necessary to cover the costs associated with the planned computerization of the examination. This increase was effective April 1, 1999, and required a change in the Missouri Rules and Regulations regarding examination fees. The new fees will also be published in the Missouri Register in the near future.

The Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards contracts the Professional Examination Service to develop the Examination for Professional Practice of Psychology. Test specifications now contain eight content domains as follows:

Biological Bases of Behavior	11%
Cognitive Affective Bases of Behavior	13%
Assessment and Diagnosis	14%
Ethical/Legal/Professional Issues	15%
Growth and Lifespan Development	13%
Social and Multicultural Bases of Behavior	12%

Comments from the Chair

Treatment/Intervention	16%
Research and Evaluation	6%

Detailed information regarding the content domains of the Examination for Professional Practice of Psychology (EPPP) can be found at www.asppb.org.

During the April 1999 administration of the EPPP in Missouri, 39 applicants sat for the examination. The State Committee of Psychologists extends sincere congratulations to the 22 candidates who passed the EPPP in Missouri. Of those applicants who passed the examination, 19 are currently in the process of completing their Post Doctoral Residency. Thus, one of the benefits for these 19 candidates is rapid licensing following successful completion of the remaining examinations (Jurisprudence and Oral Examinations) and the Post Doctoral Residency. This will facilitate rapid entry to practice in the profession.

We welcome a new board member, Dr. Chris Maglio, to the State Committee of Psychologists. Dr. Maglio was appointed to the vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. Elizabeth Kraemer, who served on the board for the past 5 years. We are grateful for Dr. Kraemer's service, and appreciate her expertise, insights, and concern for the ethical practice of psychology. Dr. Maglio, has already joined the Committee for one board meeting, and several sub-committee meetings. We look forward to continued committee work with Dr. Maglio, to many meetings involving diligent reviewing of all materials, and concerned, careful decision making.

Article from the Public Member

I am the newly appointed public member to the State Committee of Psychologists. As your public member, I hope to serve your needs and to provide you with useful information, via this newsletter and otherwise.

First, I would encourage you to attend the open session meetings of our committee. Various topics of interest to psychologists and other members of the public are discussed at our meetings, including policy-making. We also invite you to bring to us at our meetings, topics that you would like to bring to the committee's attention. Obviously, our actions as a committee are constrained by the Psychology Practice Act and Rules, Chapter 337.010 to 337.093, State of Missouri ("Practice Act"), and we must act within the confines of the Practice Act, as well as proposing changes to the Practice Act itself.

Also, as your public member, I am required to submit a media report of the open sessions of our full committee meetings. These media reports are submitted to local radio stations and newspapers where our meeting was held and are reports of topics of interest that occurred at our meeting. Look for these reports.

Our role as a committee is to serve the public as a whole, and, for that reason, we are open to your suggestions on how that can best be accomplished.

Sincerely yours,

Helen Paulin Gab

Medication Recommendation Statement

The members of the State Committee of Psychologists issued the following statement regarding a psychologist offering a medication recommendation to the prescribing physician.

It is the opinion of the Missouri State Committee of Psychologists that a psychologist may offer a medication recommendation to the prescribing physician about a patient the psychologist has evaluated when such recommendation is an informed opinion based on the psychologist's education, training, supervised experience, or appropriate professional experience. It is then incumbent on the physician, based on all of the evidence before him or her, which may include the recommendations of the psychologist, to decide what, if any, medication or medical treatment to prescribe.

Program Will Facilitate Mobility for Licensed Doctoral Psychologists

Article submitted by ASPPB

NOTE: The following article has been placed in this Newsletter at the request of the Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards (ASPPB). Currently the Missouri State Committee of Psychologists does not have an official statement regarding this article.

A new program designed to ease mobility problems experienced by licensed doctoral psychologists began August 1, 1998.

The Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards (ASPPB) announces its program of individual certification designed to facilitate mobility for psychologists licensed at the doctoral level in a state, province or territory in the U.S. or Canada. ASPPB will issue a Certificate of Professional Qualification in Psychology (CPQ) to licensed psychologists who meet standards of educational preparation, supervised experience, and examination performance, and who have practiced for a minimum of five years and have no history of disciplinary action. ASPPB is encouraging licensing boards in the United States and Canada to accept the CPQ as evidence of eligibility for psychology licensure in their jurisdictions. Through the CPQ program, ASPPB hopes to improve the process for licensing psychologists already credentialed in one jurisdiction and ease the burdens on psychology licensing boards faced with regulating an increasingly mobile profession.

Stephen T. DeMers, Ed.D., former president of ASPPB and currently director of the CPQ program, notes that the CPQ program and ASPPB's Agreement of Reciprocity are different but complementary programs. Reciprocity is an agreement between jurisdictions in which each jurisdiction agrees to recognize licenses issued by the other jurisdictions in the agreement. The ASPPB Agreement of Reciprocity has specific requirements each participating jurisdiction must require of new applicants for licensure. Based on the comparability in current licensure standards, the participating jurisdictions agree to accept all licensees from participating jurisdictions, even if they were licensed under earlier less stringent standards. Current members of the Agreement of Reciprocity are: Iowa, Kentucky, Manitoba, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, Oklahoma, Ontario and Texas. Other jurisdictions are in the process of making changes in their law or rules to enable them to join the agreement.

On the other hand, the CPQ program is an individual based endorsement of licensure eligibility. Potentially, it does for individuals what a reciprocity agreement does for jurisdictions. Individuals who meet established standards of training and experience can obtain the CPQ even if their jurisdiction's licensing law does not meet established standards. In endorsement, a jurisdiction agrees to recognize the CPQ as meeting most of the qualifications for licensure. Each jurisdiction decides for itself whether to recognize the CPQ.

Granting of the CPQ is based on an individual psychologist demonstrating compliance with ASPPB-recommended standards for licensure. For psychologists listed in the National or Canadian Registers of Health Service Providers in Psychology or who hold a diploma from the American Board of Professional Psychology, some requirements to obtain the CPQ are waived. A grandfathering provision is designed to ease mobility concerns for individuals licensed based on a doctoral degree in 1981 or before in the United States or in 1986 or before Canada and who apply for the CPQ by December 31, 2001. For details on the three options for qualifying for the CPQ, check ASPPB's web site at <http://www.asppb.org>.

A key feature of the CPQ program is its credentials bank, which provides a way for psychologists to store evidence of their professional education, experience, prior licensure, and exam performance, regardless of whether they are granted a CPQ. Once archived, this information can be accessed and submitted to any psychology licensing board, thereby reducing hassles associated with documenting compliance with licensure criteria, particularly long after one's training and initial licensure.

It is important to note that the CPQ does not constitute a license to practice. It is a mechanism to facilitate the granting of a license to practice in a second or subsequent jurisdiction. Once a psychology board agrees to recognize the CPQ, it has agreed to accept a CPQ holders' educational preparation, supervised experience, and examination performance for licensure. A jurisdiction may require a CPQ holder to pass local requirements such as a jurisprudence exam (e.g. local mental health law), training on abuse reporting, or a personal interview. Since a few jurisdictions limit licensure to psychologists trained as health service providers, a non-health service provider may obtain the CPQ yet not be eligible for licensure in some jurisdictions.

To date, seven psychology regulatory bodies in the U.S. and Canada (British Columbia, California, Kentucky, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Ontario, and Wisconsin) had agreed to recognize the CPQ. ASPPB is working with all U.S. and Canadian psychology boards to encourage widespread adoption. ASPPB's web site features a current list of states and provinces that recognize the CPQ. As more jurisdictions move to accept the CPQ, its value in facilitating mobility will increase. And even if one seeks to relocate in a jurisdiction that does not accept the CPQ, a credentials record with ASPPB will facilitate mobility by maintaining an easily accessible record of qualifications. If you have questions, or to request an application, send e-mail to cpq@asppb.org or write CPQ, c/o ASPPB, P.O. Box 4389, Montgomery, AL 36103.
